JAMES E. LYNCH IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

James Edward Lynch, of San Francisco, who for several months has been staying at the old Lynch home in Oregon Gulch, was found dead in his bed yesterday by Edward Rooney and Richard Johnson, neighbors. He had been dead since Friday night and apparently died quietly while sleeping. Death was due to chronic heart trouble. On Friday evening Lynch talked with Rooney and complained of pain in the region of his heart. That was the last he was seen. Yesterday Rooney became suspicious and with Johnson went to learn what had become of Lynch.

The deceased is survived by three sisters, Caddie, Maggie and Mary Lynch and two brothers: J. F. and W. P. Lynch. The family is one of the best known in Butte county. The deceased was 61 years of age.

An inquest will be held today at the undertaking parlors of Thomas and Kelly. Interment will be at Cherokee.

MAN RECALLS CAPTURE

OF WIFE BY INDIANS

CHICO, Dec. 8.—The funeral of George Hanes Carson, which took place yesterday afternoon in this city under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose, recalls an incident of the Indian troubles in Butte county, over 50 years ago, as the widow, then a little girl, was stolen by members of the Mill Creek tribe. Mrs. Carson was Thankful Lewis, whose parents lived on Clear Creek. The Indians stole her and her brother, and took them up the Magalia Ridge. The little boy, on account of his cries, was killed and the body thrown into the West Branch canyon. Thankful Lewis made her escape during the night and met a party of residents of Pentz and vicinity, who followed the Indians and attacked them, killing several of the tribesmen.

Mr. Carson was a native of New York, 72 years of age, and had lived 20 years near Centerville. A son lives in Oroville.

CRAZED BY SICKNESS, MAN JUMPS 60 FEET TO GROUND; DIES OF HIS INJURIES

John Richards died at the Enloe Hospital at 1:30 this morning. He was a halfbreed Indian and was born on the Chico Rancheria.

In a wild frenzy, John Richards rushed from his sickbed at the home of Mrs. Ed Martin on Humboldt avenue last night, dashed madly for the Northern Electric Mulberry shops, climbed to the top of a sixty-foot water tank and jumped from the tank to the ground, breaking both his legs in two places, the upper and lower jaw bone and the hip bone. He was unconscious at the Enloe Hospital early this morning. He may die.

Richards, who is thirty-seven years old, is employed by the Chico Ice & Cold Storage Company. About a week ago he was stricken with pneumonia, and, the crisis approaching last night, he lost his reason temporarily.

He was discovered on the top of the water tank by Bert Holmes, night operator at the Northern Electric shops.

"What are you doing up there?" queried Holmes as he looked up at Richards on top of the tank, his nightshirt flying in the breeze.

"I'm just taking in the scenery," retorted Richards, who had climbed to the railing.

Holmes telephoned the police, but Jallor Boyle was unable to proceed and arrest Richards, as he was outside the city limits. He telephoned Constable J. W. Benner, who, assisted by Constable J. A. Peck, arrived on the scene about thirty minutes later, only to find that Richards had jumped from the tank.

Dr. W. B. Johnson was summoned and Richards was taken to Enloe Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from broken legs, jaws and hips.

Miss Rachel Porter, Richards' fiancée, visited the hospital shortly after midnight, prostrated as a result of the accident.

MRS. DORCAS GRAY PIONEER WOMAN OF COUNTRY IS DEAD

Prominent Resident of Oroville Passes Away at Home of Daughter in Oakland

The death of Mrs. Dorcas W. Gray at an early hour yesterday in Oakland marks the passing of another of the pioneer women of Butte county. For many years Mrs. Gray was prominently connected with the social and the intellectual life of Oroville, and friends from all over the county will read of her death with sincere sorrow.

Mrs. Gray left during the early part of February to visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mattie Perkins, in Oakland. She became ill there, but apparently recovered. The illness was followed by relapse and death followed very shortly. At the time of her death, Mrs. Gray was over 85 years old, having celebrated her 85th birthday last December.

Mrs. Gray was married in the early fifties to George W. Moore, and together they crossed the plains. They first made their home at Marysville, but soon moved to Oroville. In the late sixties they established a hotel at Buckeye on the Oroville-Quincy road, where Mr. Moore died. In 1872 Mrs. Moore was married to James C. Gray, one of the most prominent of Oroville merchants.

GRAY, Mrs. Dorcas
Oroville Daily Register

In Oroville Mrs. Gray was prominently identified with the civic life of the community. She was instrumental in the organization of one of the first libraries organized in Oroville. She was also a prominent member of an early improvement society that did a great deal of effective work in town improvement. She was the first president of the Oroville W. C. T. U. and was prominent in the county work. In the campaign for equal suffrage in the nineties, Mrs. Gray took an active part, directing the campaign in this part of the county. While equal suffrage was defeated in the State, the measure carried in both Oroville and Butte county.

Mrs. Gray was a member of the Methodist church and of the Eastern Star. Since the death of her husband in 1908 she has lived very quietly.

Mrs. Gray was one of the principal stockholders in the Ophir Hardware Company. At the time of her death she was vice-president of that company.

Mrs. Gray is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mattie Perkins of Oakland, and Mrs. Helen Parker of Oroville; by two step-sons, Fred H. and Frank W. Gray of Oroville; by four grandchildren, George Parker and Mrs. Charles Warner of Oakland, Mrs. J. W. Ashley of San Francisco, James M. SAMUEL P. DAVIS SUCCUMBS AT HIS HOME IN CARSON

Was One of Best Known Writers in State; Went to Virginia City in 1875

Was State Controller for Two Terms; Wrote Many Poems And History of Nevada

The death of Sam P. Davis, which occurred at his ranch near Carson City at six o'clock last night, has removed another of the prominent pioneer newspaper men of Nevada and though hardly unexpected his death came a shock to hundreds of friends all over Nevada and in California.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock from the Carson City Episcopal church under the auspices of the Carson City lodge of Knights of Pythias of which he had been a prominent member for many years.

Widely Known Man

As a newspaper editor, poet and historian Sam Davis was one of the best known men on the Pacific Slope during the later days of the Comstock boom and he came into national prominence when, in his second term as state controller, he refused to allow the

New York Life Insurance Company to operate in Nevada because it was said that its president, John McCall, contributed a quarter of a million dollars of steel holders' money to the Republican campaign fund.

Sam Davis was born in Branford, Conn., on April 4, 1850. He attended Racine College in Wisconsin for three years and then entered the newspaper field as a reporter on the Omaha Herald.

Came West in 1872

The Pacific Coast and especially the Comstock mines were attracting great attention at this time, but it was not until 1872 that Davis decided to come West. In the meantime he had held positions on the Omaha Herald, Brownsville, Neb., Democrat, Brownsville Advertiser, Nebraska City News, St. Louis Republican and Chicago Times and had been editor of the Lincoln Statesman.

His first position on the Pacific Coast was with the old Vallejo Independent where he was managing editor during the political campaign of 1872. From the Independent he went to the News Letter as a correspondent and then became a reporter on the San Francisco Chronicle. His ability as a versatile newspaper man and writer was fast becoming known on the Coast and he held numerous other positions with Northern California papers, being editor of the Marysville Appeal for a short time, then editor of the Colusa Independent and the editor and part owner of the Open Letter, a humorous publication in which Woodford Owens and T. A. McCrosson were his partners. This paper was maintained at Vallejo for a time and later was moved to San Francisco where it continued for a year and finally suspended.

Comes to Nevada

At this time the great fight for control of the Comstock mines was on and San Francisco newspapers were devoting columns to the activities of the different factions. Davis went to work after the suspension of the Open Letter on the old San Francisco Daily Evening Post under Henry George, the famous author of "Progress and Poverty" and single tax authority. Then Davis forsook the San Francisco newspaper fields for those of Nevada, whither his father, a pioneer of California, had preceded him. The elder Davis was a clergyman of the Episcopal Church and settled at Carson.

His close association with the different factions that were after control of the Virginia City mines gave him an insight into conditions on the Comstock that was possessed by few newspaper men at that time and he capitalized this knowledge in his future newspaper work in Nevada. He went direct to Virginia City from San Francisco and became a reporter on the Virginia City Chronicle under Denis McCarthy where he remained for four years.

Enters the Silver Party

On November 1, 1879, he became editor of the Morning Appeal in Carson City and in 1880 he married Mrs. Nellie V. Mighels, widow of Harry Mighels, former owner of the Appeal and famous in Nevada politics, and assumed complete management of the paper.

When the silver question was at its height Davis threw the support of the Appeal to the Silver Party and in 1898 he was elected state controller on the straight silver ticket defeating G. M. Humphreys, the Democratic candidate, by 419 votes in a five-cornered race in which George F. Tarrittin, the Republican candidate ran third. He was reelected on the Silver-Democrat ticket in 1902 defeating M. C. McMillan, Republican, by 422 votes.

Wrote History of Nevada

Before, during and after his term as state controller Sam Davis took an active part in politics in Nevada as a Silver Democrat and his writings on political issues were circulated extensively.

He not only did reportorial and editorial work on newspapers but he wrote poetry and then turned his attention to writing a history of Nevada which was published in 1913. His life on the Comstock gave him a basis for writing much of historical interest about Virginia City as well as other sections of the state and his history has been widely circulated and contains a great amount of valuable information.

Last August he was stricken with paralysis while on the Coast and in order to prolong his life his leg was amputated. He was taken to Carson City a few weeks after the successful operation and remained at his ranch home near the capital since that time.

His widow, Mrs. Nellie V. Davis, two step-sons Roy and Hal Mighels, and three daughters Mrs. Lucy Crowell, Mrs. Ethel Roy and Mrs. Irving Lewis were at his bedside when the end came. Two brothers "Bob" Davis, editor of the Munsey publication, and Will Davis, city editor of the Sacramento Bee also survive him.

Angel's Tribute

Myron Angel in his history of Nevada journalism published in 1881 at a time when Sam Davis was conducting the Carson Appeal, had the following to say about him:

"He is constituted of a strange combination of extremes that permits him to take no middle course in life, the ordinary paths of men being monotonous routes that he travels only when forced into them; an event out of the ordinary, or gigantic exceptions, are his elysian fields to travel in—where the mind is always building strong contrasts of strange forms that makes him a natural humorist.

"He builds strange and formidable imaginative structures, and from the same strange material just as strange and strong other forms, thus creating by contrast, a constant absurdity in the mind, that leaves its impression more or less marked upon his writings. This peculiarity, exaggeration and power to create imagery for comparison, makes an original character which distinguishes him from many who are called humorists. His power as a writer is not limited to the above alone, for he can handle satire, is not at sea among the reefs of logic, and is possessed of a far more than average descriptive ability, but statistics would send him to an insane asylum. In disposition he is generous, frank, and kind hearted to his friends; to his enemies he is also generous and frank—frank in his expression of enmity, and generous in dealing them blows."

OLDEST LADY DIED AT BELDEN, CAL.

Belden, Feb. 15.—Susan Belden, one of the oldest lady inhabitants of this section was buried here today in the first real casket to enter the village, making the first death since the Western Pacific entered the mountain fastness.

She was the mother of Charles Belden, postmaster and storekeeper of this place, and Robert Belden. She had lived here for 80 years, hunting, fishing and mining at times a half-breed Indian woman whose tales of long ago were very interesting.

She was buried up on the side of a mountain where she had planned to rest.

The Western Pacific section foreman and his men, in true Western style, took charge of the funeral and carried the coffin to its last resting place up the steep mountain side in a blinding snow storm.

Susan Belden was Native American. Her son, Charles Belden, named the town of Belden after her. Her first husband, Charles Belden Sr., died in June 1868. She later married Robert Workman, formerly of Concow. Workmans Bar in Plumas County is named after him. He died in April 1896. They had one child, William Workman, who died in June 1898 at Long Bar in Butte County. Her oldest son, Charles, died in June 1940 and is buried in Paradise, Ca.

YOUNG GIRL IS CALLED BY DEATH

Maxine Louise McGregor, daughter of Attorney James McGregor, died at her home this morning at 7 o'clock, following an attack of scarlet fever. She was born in Susanville, and was 14 years, 7 months and 20 days old. Besides her father she is survived by a sister, Mary Ann McGregor.

The news of the little girl's death came as a great shock to the community, where she was well known and greatly beloved. She was a member of the Freshman class in the high school and was a child of great promise. She was fast becoming a talented musician and was greatly beloved by all who knew her.

The sympathy of the entire city goes out to her sorrowing father and sister.

The funeral will be private and the interment will be in Oroville cemetery. The arrangements will be announced later.

MISS M'GREGOR IS LAID TO LAST REST

The funeral of Miss Maxine McGregor was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence, the funeral being strictly private. Services at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. U. E. Partridge.

In commenting on the life of the young girl, Rev. Partridge said:

"She was a member of the Methodist church and of the Epworth League and had taken an active part in church and league work. She was a rare character and ever ready to help in all Christian work. She was a good Christian and we will sadly miss her in the church, in the Sunday school and in the Epworth league. I do not know of a member of my church who was a better and more consistent Christian."

Miss McGregor was 15 years of age and was a member of the Sophomore class of the local high school. She stood high in her classes and was a "Straight A" in all classes.

In memory of their late and well beloved schoolmate the Sophomore class of the high school has donated a fund of $10 to the Red Cross.

In addition to her father and sister she is survived by three aunts, Miss Anna McGregor, Miss Kate McGregor and Mrs. Riley.

DAN H. HILTON PIONEER, IS DEAD

Dan H. Hilton, who came to this section before there was a town at the banks of the Feather river where Oroville now stands, yesterday fore noon at 10:30 o'clock passed over the great divide. He had lived in the district since 1852 and saw the progressive stages of Oroville's history. It was written from the days when the miner with his gold pan and his flannel shirt swarmed the gullies and creek beds of the vicinity until it ceased to be the great attraction and the city settled down to a life of agriculture and manufacturing industry.

Dan H. Hilton passed away at the age of 86 years and 11 days after a prolonged illness. As a young man Dan Hilton was a man known throughout the region for his great strength and bore the name of the strongest man of the foothills. He was one of the first city marshals of Oroville.

Mr. Hilton was a member of the following lodges:

Amapola Chapter, No. 109, O S.; Past Master of the Oroville Lodge No. 103, F. & A. M., also Past 1 Priest of the Franklin Chapter, 20, R. A. M.

Dan Hilton is survived by his sisters and several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Masonic hall. Interment will be at the Oroville cemetery.

Daniel Hilton of Oroville Passes Away

OROVILLE, July 26.—Dan H. Hilton, better known as Uncle Dan, and one of the best known and beloved pioneers of this section, passed away after a prolonged illness.

The deceased was a native of Starks Maine, and was eighty-six years old. During the early days he came to this country and was one of the most popular men around the large mining districts and lumber camps. He could not be surpassed for strength and was said to be one of the strongest men in the country at that time.

He was one of the first city marshals of this town and was influential in political circles. He was a prominent Mason.

Among his surviving relatives are four sisters—Mrs. H. A. Sanborn, Mrs. Thomas Moore, Mrs. J. H. Johnson and Mrs. John Maffy, all of Chico.

Dungan.

The pall bearers were: G. H. Matthews, R. S. Kiltrick, C. W. Carpenter, C. J. Dreher, J. P. Fagan and Donald Macfarlane.

Interment was in the Oroville cemetery.

E. B. WARD PROMINENT OROVILLE MAN DIES IN SACRAMENTO

News came to this city yesterday of the death of E. B. Ward, one of the best known men in this section of the State and one of Butte county's greatest supporters. Mr. Ward died at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Sacramento hospital after he had undergone an operation for a sickness from which he has been suffering for some time, but in spite of his untold suffering he continued his daily business dealings. He had been advised by physicians that a minor operation would completely cure him. He was operated on at Sacramento Saturday. He seemed on the way to recovery when he suddenly relapsed.

WARD, Edward B. Oroville Mercury 8-12-1918

With the passing away of Mr. Ward Butte county has lost a man who was continually working for the interest of this section. He spent much of his time and energy in an effort to encourage in every way the development of projects that would prove a benefit to Oroville and vicinity. He has been active in all public works for a number of years.

Mr. Ward was born in Morristown, Sierra county, on December 8, 1860. He came to Oroville in 1874. Here he was employed by the firm of Perkins and Company for a number of years. He was deputy sheriff under his father-in-law, Sheriff Sam McClollan. Later he served for eight years as recorder and auditor of the county. He also served as justice of the peace of Ophir township. He was a charter member of the Native Sons. For the past few years he has been secretary of the Oroville Chamber of Commerce. His genial disposition and happy character won hosts of friends for him.

In addition to Mrs. Ward and Earl, his brother-in-law, George Carr, was with him when the end came.

Immediate relatives surviving Mr. Ward are his wife and son, two sisters, Mrs. Slator McFarland and Miss Julia Ward and his two brothers, W. A. Ward and Louis F. Ward.

The funeral services will be held at the Ward residence, on Bird street, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. The services will be under the auspices of the Native Sons.

Interment will be at the Oroville cemetery.

Lieut. Charles Faul, familiarly and affectionately known to hundreds of friends here as "Chic" Faul, died yesterday at Camp Mills, New York, from influenza.

News of his serious illness was received here during the middle of the week. It was hoped, however, that his magnificent physique would be able to combat the disease.

Lieut. Faul was born and reared in Oroville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faul. When the United States entered the war, he at once enlisted with Company I, and went to Camp Kearney. His aptitude for military matters attracted attention, and he was recommended for an officers training camp. There he won his commission, and was appointed as a second lieutenant.

Lieut. Faul was transferred to Camp Mills, where he contracted influenza. It was thought that he was recovering, when he suffered a relapse and his condition grew daily more critical until death came.

Lieut. Faul is survived by his mother and father and by his brother, Alvin Faul, to whom the sympathy of the community goes out in their great bereavement.

The remains will be brought to Oroville for interment.
