Toadstool Fatal
To Pentz Boy, 6;
Father Recovers

Eating of a part of a toadstool was blamed today for the death of Paul Edward Noe, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Noe of Pentz.

The child ate the toadstool Sunday and was believed to be recovering following administration of home treatment. Last evening the child became seriously ill and died in a local hospital.

The father, who ate part of the fungus, and who received hospital treatment, recovered.

The father had been studying a book describing mushrooms. Sunday the boy found a growth that was assumed to be a mushroom and brought it into the house. He asked his mother to cook it. The father ate the larger part of the fungus. He was taken seriously ill Monday and was brought to an Oroville hospital. The child, who was said to have eaten a piece only as large as a half dollar, appeared at first not to have suffered such serious effects.

The Noes live on the W. H. Graves place, where Noe is employed.

Graveside services for the child will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in Clear Creek cemetery. Burial will be under direction of Hamilton and Riley's. The Rev. H. H. Allen of the Methodist church will conduct the services.

OROVILLE (Butte Co.), April 29. A coroner's jury last night brought in the verdict that Maurice Ulmont Phares, 36, met death accidentally at Death Curve last Saturday night when he was thrown to the pavement and suffered a fractured skull. The wheels of Phares' machine locked.

Phares' car, the investigators say, was traveling at a high rate of speed. Phares was thrown thirty feet. The car caught fire and was almost consumed.

James was born in Yankee Hill but had lived with other members of the James family at Oregon City, north of Oroville, most of his life. Four years ago he moved to Thermalito where he lived at the home of his sister.

The father of the present James family was an English sailor who settled in California after coming around Cape Horn in the gold days.

He became tired with the "gold fever" and prospected along the Feather river. Later he settled at Yankee Hill and then at Oregon City.

Surviving besides Mrs. Mengler are the following brothers and sisters, Miss Maggie James, Mrs. H. W. TeGrunde, A. T. James and Frank E. James all of Oroville and Dr. R. F. James of Boston.

Mrs. Lydia Steward Will Be Laid to Her Last Rest

Funeral services have been arranged for Monday at 3 p. m. for Mrs. Lydia Steward, 102 years old, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William T. Ferguson, Sylvan boulevard, Christmas day. The services will be held from the F. Arthur Cortner chapel and interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

The death of the aged woman strikes a note of mourning in the hearts of hundreds of Redlands residents, who have celebrated her birthday with her for several years. Despite her extreme age, her past three birthdays have been the occasion for city-wide observance.

Mrs. Steward saw pioneering days not only in Redlands but in California. Born in Monmouth, Me., Oct. 1, 1829, as a young woman she traveled alone to San Francisco in 1853, living in rough mining camps for many years.

She was Miss Lydia Garcelon in Maine. Her father, Harrison Garcelon, held several public positions in the legislature of Maine. The pioneer Garcelon came to America from France in 1739. Her mother was of New England Quaker stock.

Miss Garcelon met Joseph Steward in St. Albans, Me., and they became sweethearts. The gold fever seized young Joseph and he hit the western trail in 1850. Three years later Miss Garcelon followed, sailing southward from New York, crossing the isthmus by mule and lake boats and sailing northward to San Francisco.

They were married Nov. 27, 1853, by a justice of the peace at Marysville. Her journey from the city back to the mines was one long triumphal journey by wagon train. Word had filtered through the camps and settlements for miles about that a white girl had come to the gold coast and her arrival was occasion for a continuous round of celebration—a wedding journey surpassing, no doubt, any that would have been countenanced in staid old New England.

Mrs. Lydia Steward, who died Christmas day.

In 1898 Mr. and Mrs. Steward and their six children came to Redlands, where their son, Harry, was employed. Since that time Mrs. Steward has resided in the city, and has taken an active part in its affairs. Three of the children, Mrs. Ferguson and Harry Steward, of Los Angeles, and Charles Steward, San Diego, are still living.

Despite her deafness which had been her affliction for many years, Mrs. Steward continued her active interest in life, and voted at every election, as an ardent Democrat. She was an enthusiastic motorist, and cherished a desire to try a flying trip, which she would have done had she lived. She was also a radio fan, and enjoyed orchestra music particularly.

Death Takes Well Known Medicine Man

William J. Conway, 71, widely known Indian "doctor," died yesterday morning at 10:05 o'clock at the home of his son, Isaiah, on the Indian rancheria north of Chico.

He was born October 7, 1861, in Tehama county and in the early days of Chico was a laborer in the stock division of the Bidwell ranch for Gen. John Bidwell. Later he engaged in farm labor and a few years ago established his herb selling business north of town. He was several times in the public eye because of his arrest and trials on violation of the medicinal practice act. He claimed to have gained his knowledge of herbs and primitive remedies through having been chief medicine man of the local tribe of Indians. He was quite a showman and on two occasions at least took part in public performances of Indians in tribal costume, once in the old Majestic theatre, where he participated in an Indian war dance and one in the Bidwell grounds, where an Indian massacre was portrayed. He was not a full blooded Indian, his father having been as he once stated to an Enterprise man, either Irish or of Irish extraction, by profession a prize fighter who engaged in a noted contest at San Francisco in 1860 with J. C. Heenan, known as the Benicia Boy, to determine which of them should go east to fight Tom Sayers, the British heavyweight champion.

His father was John Conway and his mother was Mary Montgomery, who were married at Vina, near which deceased was born.

CONWAY, William J.
The Chico Enterprise

Of Wintoon Tribe

He was a member of the Wintoon tribe and later became their medicine man. He had only three days of schooling, having been "put out" of the grammar school at Vina but later picked up some education from his association with white people, according to his son, Dewey.

He is believed to be the last of the Indian Masonic lodge in this district.

He was married three times, his first wife being Nellie Hall, who gave birth to nine children, only three of whom survive, according to "Old Pablo," an associate of Conway from his early youth. Two children were born to another wife.

Chief Counsellor

Conway was the chief counsellor of his people for many years and lately was president of the local Indian board of cooperation.

That he had a premonition of his death is shown by the fact that during his last illness he called his son Dewey and said to him:

"I will not last long now and it is my wish that you, Isaiah and Jodie carry on the business beginning next week just as though I were still with you."

Dewey said today the wishes of his father will be carried out and the three surviving boys will carry on the business of the Indian Arrowhead Medicine company.

The deceased leaves three sons, Isaiah, Dewey and Jodie and three grandchildren, Juanita, Ivan and Vernon Conway, all of Chico.

Bicknell & Moore have charge of arrangements.

Funeral will be Wednesday, the time to be fixed later, at the Bicknell & Moore chapel with the Rev. Harris Pillsbury of the Bidwell Memorial Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in the Indian rancheria.

Chico Indian 'Medicine Man' Dies At Home

CHICO (Butte Co.), April 4.—Death yesterday removed a colorful Chico figure and at the same time ended a controversy of several years' standing between William J. Conway, Indian "medicine man" and the state board of medical examiners.

Conway, variously reputed to be an Indian chief, or the son of an Indian chief, died Sunday at his home in the Indian Village, as the settlement on the former Bidwell lands is called.

Had Office In Home.

Conway, an herbalist, maintained a home far better than the average weather-beaten shacks of the other residents of the village. He kept his office in the residence and had a large clientele of "patients" from all parts of California, as well as other states.

Conway had a standard charge of $5 per consultation from patients. They came from all walks of life, and records seized by the board of medical examiners disclosed that the number of patients calling daily on Conway ranged from thirty or forty to as many as 100.

Arrested Several Times.

He was arrested several times on charges of violations of the medical practices act. At least twice he plead guilty, once paying a fine of $100 and once $200. Only two weeks ago a charge against him was dismissed.

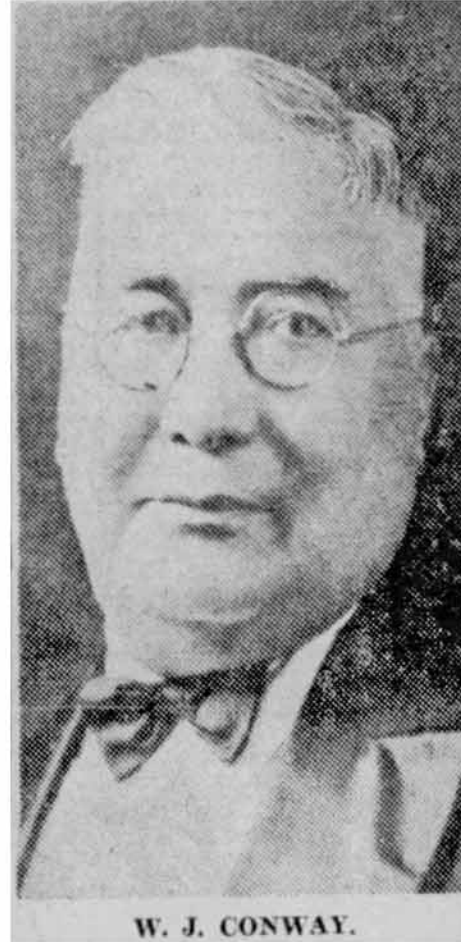

On one occasion, when he was arrested, his waiting room was filled with patients. They applauded him as the officers led him away.

Denied He Was "Doctor."

Conway had a sign on the wall proclaiming that he was not a doctor. He claimed to effect cures by prescribing ancient herbs of his tribe.

The state board investigators, however, claimed that many patent medicines, sedatives and other pain killing medicines including asperin, found their way into Conway's preparations.

W. J. CONWAY.

Was Indian Leader.

Conway was born in Tehama, and was a member of the Mechoopda Tribe. He was aged 70 years, and had resided in the Indian Village here for years. He was identified with the work of the Indians in attempting to obtain recognition for their claims from the government as provided in the old treaties.

Conway was a ward of the late Mrs. Annie E. K. Bidwell, widow of General John Bidwell, founder of Chico, and benefactor of the Indians.

He is survived by three sons, Isiah, Hewie and Jodie Conway, and four grandsons.

Conway, Indian Doctor, Succumbs To Heart Attack

Medicine Man, Center of State Attacks, Said To Leave Fortune

A career during the past few years which reputedly brought him considerable wealth was at an end yesterday for William Jennings Conway, Indian medicine man, following his death here Sunday.

Conway, who had been kept in bed for more than a week because of an ailing heart, died at the age of 70. During his practice here he had attention brought to him on numerous occasions when he was arrested by an investigator for the state medical board on charges of practicing medicine without a license. Several times Conway paid fines for the alleged offenses and on at least two occasions the counts were dismissed.

BORN IN TEHAMA—

Born in Tehama County, Conway during his early years worked on the Bidwell Rancho where he did various menial tasks. Later he drove the Bidwell carriage at various times.

It was only in recent years that Conway began his herbal practice, when he reputedly practiced with Indian herbs, gathered in various parts of the state. People came from all parts of the state, as far north as British Columbia and as far south as Mexico to receive the treatments. Many persons testify regarding the curative power of the treatment, and some have shown offense when Conway was arrested on the medical practice charges.

CHEERED BY PATIENTS—

On one occasion when Conway was taken into custody at his office nearly a half hundred persons were present and a great cheer arose to greet him as he promised to return shortly.

John Conway was the medicine man's father and his mother was Mary Montgomery. Conway was a member of the Wintoon tribe and for a time served as their medicine man. Although he had little formal schooling he was reputed by Masons to have a store of knowledge about the order that few members could equal. Conway is reputed to be the last member of an Indian Masonic order in this district. He was also a member of the Presbyterian Church.

PRACTICE CONTINUES—

When he became ill recently Conway called his son, Dewey, to him and told him that he thought death was near and asked that Dewey, with his two brothers, Isaiah and Jodie, continue to conduct the business he had established. Dewey Conway said yesterday that the business will continue to be conducted as the Indian Arrowhead Medicine Company.

Until the past few years Conway had been active in the fight to secure recognition of Indian claims, alleged to have been guaranteed by treaties with the red men.

Conway was married three times. Nine children were born during the first union, only three of whom survive. They are the three sons living here.

FUNERAL TOMORROW—

In earlier years, when Indians living in this section observed their tribal rites of their forefathers with dances and ceremonies, Conway on at least two occasions participated in the events. At the old Majestic Theater Conway participated in a war dance and on the Bidwell grounds took part in a performance describing an Indian massacre.

In addition to being a Mason, Conway was a member of the Presbyterian Church established for Indians by Mrs. Bidwell. He is survived by three grandchildren, Juanita, Ivan and Vernon Conway, all of Chico, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stella Conway, wife of Isaiah, and the three sons.

Funeral rites will be conducted at the Bicknell & Moore Chapel tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Harris Pillsbury and interment will be in the Indian Cemetery.

INDIAN MEDICINE MAN

Although it was not generally known, the appeal of William J. Conway, so-called Indian medicine man of Chico, who died last week, appears to have been very extensive in these communities. Scores from here, it is asserted, sought his healings.

Conway purported to treat human ailments by the use of the herbal remedies of his aboriginee forebears. He was often in trouble with the state medical authorities on charges of the illegal practice of medicine, but managed each time to extricate himself.

The funeral services for "Dr." Conway, it appears, were not particularly tribal, but his interment was in an Indian cemetery and the attendants all were Indians.—Grass Valley Union.

Butte Murder Scene; Principals

Top, left, the 17-year-old patricide; top, right, the river bank where the slaying took place, showing (1) where the elder Luzovich was engaged in panning gold at the time of the killing; (2) where his son stood behind a large boulder and fired the fatal shots, and (3) where the dead man's purse, watch and knife had been cached by the youth after the killing; and at bottom, the victim.

BUTTE PATRICIDE SHOWS OFFICERS SCENE OF CRIME

Indicates Self-Defense Will Be Plea At Trial

(By Bee Bureau)

OROVILLE (Butte Co.), May 19. Indications that Tony Luzovich, 17-year-old patricide, will plead self-defense in his trial for the murder of his father, Anton Luzovich, 43, were seen yesterday as the youth visited the scene of the tragedy on the west branch of the North Fork of the Feather River, and re-enacted his version of the shooting.

Discrepancies between his story and the evidence uncovered by Dr. E. A. Kusel, autopsy surgeon, were noted. Young Luzovich, who had accompanied the officers to the scene in order to show them where he had cached the purse, watch and knife he had taken from his victim's pockets after the slaying, told the officers he had fired only three shots at his father. The autopsy disclosed that four shots apparently had been fired, three of which penetrated the body, either of which would have proved fatal, and a fourth which passed between the man's left arm and body, leaving crease marks.

Demonstrates His Version.

The self-defense explanation was made by young Luzovich in his demonstration to the officers yesterday. He said that he and his father had quarreled, and that the elder Luzovich had advanced on him with drawn knife. The youth said that from his position behind a ledge of rock he fired twice at his father, both shots taking effect. He claimed that his parent then had turned about and attempted to climb out of the canyon. As his father reached the top of a mass of rock, the youth said, he fired the third shot and his father fell.

LUZOVICH, Anton

The testimony given by Dr. Kusel before the coroner's jury showed that one of the bullets had entered the elder Luzovich's body from the side, penetrating both his heart and lungs. Another shot had entered the abdomen and ranged upward, while a third shot had entered his back, also striking the heart. The authorities are of the opinion that the youth fired one or more of the shots after his victim had fallen mortally wounded, perhaps already dead.

Possessions Found.

The purse, containing a $5 bill and seventy-six cents in small change; the watch and the knife, which had belonged to the elder Luzovich, were found near the scene of the crime, where they had been cached at the base of an oak tree and covered with leaves.

Upon the return of the party from the scene of the murder the youth was taken before Justice of the Peace Harry S. Hills by Sheriff C. W. Toland and Constable Fitch. There his preliminary hearing was set for May 25th.

HENRY R. MIGHELS DIES SUDDENLY AT TAHOE

Stricken suddenly with a heart attack while he was working in the yard at his new summer home at Lake Tahoe Henry R. (Hal) Mighels, publisher of the Carson City Appeal and one of Nevada's best known newspaper men, died late yesterday afternoon. A native of Carson City Mr. Mighels had spent the greater part of his life in this state and ended his newspaper career on the newspaper that his father developed in the early seventies into one of the outstanding publications in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Mighels started work on the home at Lincoln Park, Lake Tahoe this summer and completed the structure about two weeks ago. They went to the place yesterday to spend Armistice Day and Mr. Mighels was working in the yard when he was stricken. Mrs. Mighels summoned aid immediately and a physician was called from Carson. He said death occurred immediately after the heart attack.

Mr. Mighels was born on October 9, 1867 and served his apprenticeship on the Carson Appeal where he learned the printing trade and newspaper work in general. Following the death of his father who was one of the fiery early day editors the paper was taken over by Sam P. Davis and young Mighels served under him for many years and had charge of the paper during Davis' absence. Davis was one of the outstanding figures in Nevada newspaper work and also in politics and for a number of years Mighels received a thorough schooling from him.

MIGHELS, Henry Rust
Reno Gazette Journal

The Appeal is one of the state's oldest papers. It was founded in 1865 and the elder Mighels became its editor that year coming to this state from Marysville, Cal., where he was one of the founders of the Marysville Appeal. Following his death his widow married Sam P. Davis and still resides in Carson. She is eighty-nine years old.

After the death of Davis some fifteen years ago the ownership of the paper passed to Mrs. Davis, and it was leased for a time.

Hal Mighels was appointed clerk of the supreme court in 1916 by the late Gov. Emmet D. Boyle to succeed Joe Josephs and later he engaged in newspaper work in Ely and at Fallon. He returned to Carson a few years ago to resume editorship of the Appeal. Though his father operated the Appeal as a Republican paper during its early career, it later turned to the Democratic party under Davis during the height of the Bryan silver movement and Hal Mighels operated it as a Democratic newspaper although he asserted his independence of party politics on numerous occasions.

Funeral services will be held at Carson Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Episcopal church and burial will be in the Masonic cemetery there. The services are being directed by the Capitol Mortuary.

Besides his widow Mr. Mighels is survived by two children, Bernice McDonald of Hobart Mills and Henry R. Mighels of Truckee, two sisters Mrs. Lucy Crowell of Carson and Mrs. Frank Walt of Las Vegas and a brother Roy R. Mighels of Reno and his mother Mrs. Nellie V. Davis of Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mighels would have celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary on November 21.

H. H. TEGRUNDE DEAD; NEARLY 100 YEARS OLD

One of the oldest residents of Butte county died near Oroville this morning.

He was Herman Henry Tegrunde and he would have been 100 years old had he lived until next June 30th. Tegrunde died at the home of his nephew, Herman Tegrunde, on the Long Bar Road. He had been ill a short time due to the infirmities of age.

Born in Hamiskel, Germany, in 1833, Tegrunde came to the United States in 1857 and first settled in New Orleans. Two years later he went to Iowa and then went west by stage to Colorado where he followed mining.

Was Early Settler

In 1862 he came to California and lived in Sacramento until 1865 when he went to Rock Creek in northern Butte county. He lived at Rock Creek for many years following mining and stock raising. In 1907 he came to Oroville and made his home with his nephew.

Tegrunde was robust for his advanced years and to intimates he could recall many interesting incidents of early days in California. He became a citizen of the United States soon after he settled in this county receiving his final naturalization papers in 1867.

The only survivor in this county is the nephew.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 p. m. at Hamilton and Rileys with the Rev. W. J. Johnson officiating. Burial will be in the Oregon City cemetery.
